Police chief Sheila Dawson puts Detective Ethan Connors in charge of this no-body case. But Connors is a skeptic who is convinced that all psychics are frauds. And Ruby herself still has plenty of doubts. What will she have to do to prove to Detective Connors—and to herself—that her gift can be trusted?

Ruby Wilcox has always known that she has a rare gift for seeing things that others can't. But how can she learn to use it when she's haunted by the memory of loss, and by all the possible consequences?
